

SwiftCertainFair 2017 Application for Resource Center HOPE Training and Technical Assistance

Are you implementing or looking to implement a swift, certain, and fair sanctions program (SCF/HOPE) in your agency? If so, the Swift Certain Fair Resource Center can help. In conjunction with the Bureau of Justice Assistance, the Center provides free training and technical assistance to state, local, territorial, and tribal jurisdictions and agencies implementing SCF/HOPE in community corrections.

Research has shown that a system of swift, certain, and modest sanctions can motivate compliance. This approach has yielded reductions in drug use, recidivism, and incarceration rates in several jurisdictions across the country. The Center is now assisting probation and parole agencies implementing SCF/HOPE programs in more than a dozen states.

Technical assistance may range from providing training, to assisting with the creation of various program elements, to the fidelity monitoring and data analysis that will help your program maintain its effectiveness over time. No matter where you are in the development, implementation, or evaluation process, we can help.

This application will help us understand the specific needs faced by your agency. Please be sure to describe your situation in detail. SCF Center staff will work closely with successful applicants to help them achieve their program goals.
